With F.M.L.

More than an "affluent" society, we are becoming the apparent society.

The student rebellion, domestic and international, but especially domestic, is an example.

This minority of minorities takes freedom so seriously they apparently wish to change everything. Seldom in this country do they go beyond the cloister of the campus. They go to the administration buildings. They are apparently responsible for change, but ask immunity of coercion and irresponsibility and anarchy once confined to "panty raids", swallowing gold fish and cramming phone booths.

Students in other countries are more overt. They go into the streets, as in Tokyo, Berlin, Mexico City or Paris. Those students ask no immunty. Indeed, they find none. They are hosed, tear gassed or, in the extreme, fired upon with bazookas. That is real.

Our students are courageous in demanding, too often in adolescent, four-letter idiom or multi-syllable rhetoric, the university community's attention. And often, the university recants to their whim.

Our students are sincere in questioning the value of dying in Vietnam, but are inured with a generation-old fear of "the bomb", hardly the idealistic substance of rebellion. They don't like ROTC on campus; they don't like job recruiters from war industries on campus.

They are not sheep, it is true, nor are they leaders. They capitalize on privilege within privileged confines and renounce the essence of privilege, which, if honestly held, is to stand unshielded and to prove the right to question and to protest.

They are grown up as long as they are "on campus". That is apparent; that is real.

They are truly righteous. They are often right. But they lack maturity beyond intellectual accrual to know the difference and to know that right is seldom, if ever righteous.

They are coddled. They are bored. And a lot of them are afraid of what awaits "off campus", whether or not we are fighting in Vietnam. More students, by the tens of thousands, enter graduate school each advancing year, as much to delay adult decision as to further knowledge, much of which is incomplete and irrelevant.

Irrelevancy is the adult community's fault, but no license to tear down the walls that shield apparent heroes from the reality they earnestly want to change.

We might say similar things about the generation which has allowed this minority so much time and tender. That is pointless because the previous generation at least knew responsibility was theirs, whether they won World War II or stalemated Korea or perhaps failed their kids.

They are good kids. That is apparent; that is real. They question all the adult hypocrisies, which are legion, but their claim to such credentials is apparent.

They are scholarship students and they are marginal students. They are black and they are white. Their denominator, which is real, is that they are students.

They don't have to die in Vietnam to grow up. They don't have to wave Viet flags in Washington. It is unlikely they would be able, if inclined, to wave American flags in Hanoi, Peking or Moscow.

They are the best educated this country has ever produced. That is real. Their ability to question and to influence style, buying power and manners is unparalleled. That is real.

The trouble is they apparently think the world is waiting for this kind of realism. And the truth is the world is not, not remotely. It never was.

The world suffers for involvement, but in all its parts. It is sadly in need of idealism as well as heroism. But this generation did not invent "idealism" which apparently is what they think and have often been told.

They are apparent victims of this country's own good graces and good intentions. Their fear, not only of Vietnam, but of all the implications of educated, mass living is real.

But fear has only apparent value in rebellion. Failure is inherent in an apparent society.

COUNTY ASKS FUNDS UNDER CRIME BILL

Milam County has requested over $10,000 in state aid from the Criminal Justice Council for improved crime detectiom and control.

The aid would come through the state from the Federal Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

County Judge O. B. Harden said the Milam County Commissioners Court had decided to request the assistance directly rather than joining with the area agencies forming in Bell and McLennan Counties. He said Willis Whatley, head of the Judicial section of the Texas Criminal Justice Council, had advised that the county could act on its own in requesting the crime prevention funds.

The county officially requested aid for a ten point improvement program:

Jail Impovements - adequate sanitary facilities and separate facilities for males and females, and juveniles in the existing Milam County jail. Cost of needed improvements to be determined.

Adult and Juvenile Probation Officer - cost of the program fo one year estimated at $2,400, with local share being $960 and state share $1,440. The request was made with the provision that the county would take over financing of the office two or three years after the starting date.

Identification Equipment - fingerprinting and photographic equipment estimated to cost $250 with the county paying $100 and the state $150.

Additional Personnel for Sheriff's Department - addition of a qualified office deputy and an additional field deputy. At present the sheriffs office has two deputies handling both field and office duties. Estimated cost is $10,000 for one year with the county paying $4,000 and the state $6,000.

Filing System for Sheriff's Office - total estimated cost $250. Local share $100, State share $150.

Training for Law Enforcement Officers - training for sheriff's deputies and county constables. Estimated cost for one year: $500. Local share $200, State share $300.

Equipment and Clothing fo Law Enforcement Officers - total cost for uniforms and weapons estimated at $600. Local share $240, state share $360.

County Court Law Library - addition of Vernon's Texas Statuts and Rules and a set of Criminal Form Books for use by the County Judge and County Attorney. Estimated cost is $1,200. Local share $480, state share $720.

"Operation Success" will begin Thursday (today) when directors for the St. Edward Hospital Development Fund meet to plan final phases of the $250,000 fund drive.

John Vitello, public relations and development manager for the Order of St. Joseph's Hospital at Houston, will meet with the group at the Cameron Chamber of Commerce at 5:30 p.m.

Plans to raise the remaining $39,000 needed to meet Cameron's goal for the new $1 million hospital include contacts to prospective donors, a May 31 Benefit Ball sponsored by Three Arts Club, and an afternoon open house June 1 at St. Edward Hospital.

Vitello praised the "all out efforts" by Cameron citizens to raise the $250,000 needed to match Hill-Burton funds. "Response has been just great," he told The Herald, and added "we are using as our theme 'they told us it couldn't be done.'

"This final drive will show we can go over the top," Vitello said.

UIL BAND CONTEST

The Yoe High School Band received a First rating in sight reading and a Second in concert at the University Interscholastic League band competition held at Georgetown Saturday.

RC Blood On Line

At least 120 prospective donors are needed for Cameron to meet its 100-unit goal at Friday's Red Cross Bloodmobile visit, last one in the blood program year.

The bloodmobile will be at the Methodist Fellowship Hall Friday from 12 noon until 6 p.m.

Sister Aloysius, blood program chairman, said that meeting the 100-unit goal is especially important since previous bloodmobile visits resulted in Cameron being short of its yearly unit quota.

"The coming of summer and vacation time means more accidents occuring," Sister Aloysius added, "and elective surgery performed during the summer brings a need for more blood."

The Red Cross blood program has special significance for two Cameron men: one who is the local champion blood donor and one whose life was nearly lost because local hospitals did not have enough blood stored.

Con Sutter, owner of Dairy King, is the current champion donor, having given five gallons, or 40 units, to the Cameron blood program since its start in 1965.

"It's more or less a game with me," he said, "I used to say I'm going to give five gallons, and now I'm trying for six. Blood does things money can't do. It doesn't cost anything but a little time," he added.

Sutter noted his experience with the receiving end of the blood program, when his mother had surgery in a Houston hospital. 'All I had to do was tell them we belong to the Milam County blood program and she received transfusions she needed," he said.

I. T. Gilbert, Cameron insurance man, counts it "a miracle" that he lived to get to a large enough supply of blood when his arm was severely injured in an accident last September.

About six units of blood were available at the local hospital where he was taken after the late evening accident. The extreme emergency nature of his accident left no time to begin a search for donors and he was transferred to a Temple hospital.

Gilbert said "I couldn't have had much more than two pints of blood left by the time I got to Temple." He credited his healthy condition for withstanding a shock which would have been fatal to a weaker patient.

He was given 14 pints of blood.

Red Cross blood program officials have noted that a much larger emergency supply of blood could be kept on hand by small community hospitals if the Waco Blood Center received over-the-quota donations at Bloodmobile visits.

COUNTY OK's PENSION PROGRAM

County Commissioners voted to include an employee retirement program in the county budget for 1970. Commissioners stipulated that the program would be adopted only under the condition that it did not cause a tax increase.

Estimated annual cost of the pension program is $15,000. County Judge O. B. Harden said a representative of the Texas Retirement System would meet with Country Commissioners on May 9 to determine actual costs. He said the program was on a cost-share basis with both the county and employees contributing 5 percent each.

The retirement program had been in question since July 1967 when county employees petitioned for adoption of the plan. In December 1968 the question was again raised and commissioners appointed Valter Wilke, John Andres and Wayne Wieser to investigate costs and benefits.

The retirement plan would cover all county employees and elected officials. It is now in effect in both Bell and McLennan counties.

UR PLANS GET FINAL REVIEW HERE TUESDAY

Representatives from Bernard Johnson Engineers, Inc., of Houston, met with City officials and Cameron Urban Renewal board members Tuesday for a final conference before submitting Cameron's program plans to the Fort Worth Housing and Urban Development office.

A. W. McCullin Sr. said James B. Green, engineer with Bernard Johnson, and three officials of the Houston engineering firm met Tuesday morning with Mayor E. A. Perrin and A. E. Matula, poject director, for presentation of the city's part of the planning work.

An afternoon "wrap-up" meeting was held with members of the LPA (Local Public Authority) committee, McCullin said.

He added that the plan should be ready for presentation to the Fort Worth office by next week.

Prominent Corner Awaits Long Silent Bell In Courthouse

County Judge O. B. Harden has plans to permanently display an 1891 brass bell in a corner of the main corridor of the Milam County Courthouse, after remodeling work is completed. Only obstacle to the plan is moving the bell from a loft in the top of the courthouse to the first floor.

The bell is made of three inch thick solid brass, is 3'6" in diameter and stands about four or five feet high.

Judge Harden said a crane operator working in Cameron had agreed to lift the bell, but moved on to another ob without moving the bell. He said workmen at the courthouse had found the bell, that many in Cameron had forgotten. He said they had also discovered the 1891 date stamped on it.

The bell originally was automated by a clock in the courthouse tower.

Committee Hears More Testimony On School Report

The House Education Committee heard more testimony on HB 300, the controversial Governor's Committee Report last week and heard a bill raising the penalty for school non-attendance.

Rep. Dan Kubiak said in his weekly newsletter that the teacher's pay raise bill will be out of subcommittee shortly.

The proposed bill HB 1074 would raise the penalty from not less than $5 to not more than $25 for parents who fai to require their child or ward to attend school regularly.

TAXES

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and House Speaker Gus Mutscher acknow - ledged Thursday "they are seriously considering a one year Appropriations Bill which would offset an immediate tax hike," Kubiak said.

"I feel there is growing opposition against any new taxes at this time," he continued, "and that each of us is opposed to new taxes."

"With such factors as the talk of a cut in the federal surtax and a more favorable view of federal-state revenue sharing plan by the Nixon administration, we need to write a bill requiring no new taxes."

With the writing of a one-year Appropriations Bill a teachers pay raise could be given without having to raise additional taxes, Kubiak said.

REDISTRICTING

Gov. Smith asked the Legislature to set up a seven-member commission to obtain computerized tapes of the next census to be used in prompt reaportionment in Texas in 1971, and to advise legislators of guidelines set by the Supreme Court decision.

"Most of you know that we will not act on redistricting unless the three-judge Federal Court in House, which has jurisdiction in Texas cases, orders further revision," Rep. Kubiak reported. Our rural areas will lose vital representation when redistricting finally is enacted."

Santa Fe Reports Net Income Gain

An increase of 64.6 percent in first quarter earnings of Santa Fe Industries, Inc. was announced by Ernest S. Marsh, chairman. Consolidated net income was up $6.9 million to $17.5 million, or 71 cents per share compared with $10.6 million, or 43 cents per share earned last year.

Marsh pointed out the figures are on the basis of generally accepted accounting principles and those for last year are restated on a "pooling of interest" basis to include results of operation of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company and subsidiaries prior to the effective date of the exchange of Railway common and preferred stock for Industries stock.

The improvement in earnings stemmed primarily from an increase of $10.1 million, or 5.9 percent in transportation revenues which amounted to $180.5 million for the quarter compared with $170.4 million in 1968.

In addition, although wage increases effective July 1, 1968, and January 1, 1969, added substantially to costs of employment, concentrated efforts to reduce operating expenses by strict budgetary controls and more efficient methods held transportation expenses to a rise of only 1.1 percent. The improvement in net income also reflects an increase of $1.7 million in non-transportation revenues and a gain of $0.4 million in other income.

Aid For College Students Offered By Federal Loans

A number of federal programs provide financial aid to students who need help to complete their education. Details on four of these programs were released by Cong. W. R. Poage this week as high school students make plans for college.

National Defense Student Loan

The NDSL Program provides for loans up to $1,000 a year to a total of $5,000 for college or university undergraduates and up to $2,500 a year for graduate or professional study to a maximum of $10,000. Interest rate on these loans is a nominal three percent and repayment begins after a college or university student ends his study and may extend over ten year period.

Loans to students who become teachers may be cancelled in whole or in part -- a percentage cancellation being allowed for each year engaged in the teaching profession.

The college or university determines which students will receive a loan and sets the amount; therefore, the student financial aid officer of the college or university which a student plans to attend can furnish more specific information as to loan money available.

Work-Study Program

The College Work-Study Program may assist by providing an opportunity for a student to work for the college or university itself or for a public or private non-profit agency - such as a school, a social agency, or a hospital -- cooperating with the college or university. The salary paid (the student) is generally equal to the current minimum wage though it is sometimes more for highly specialized work.

Again, the college or university selects the students to be employed and decides on suitable jobs. Thus, the college or university student financial aid officer could furnish information as to openings for students in the program.

Educational Opportunity Grants

These grants are available for students of exceptional financial need who would be unable to continue their education without them. Grants up to $1,000 a year may be made for four years of undergraduate study. If a student is selected for a grant, he or she will receive additional financial assistance at east equal to the Educational Opportunity amount.

Selection of students as well as determination of the amount of a grant is made by the college or university.

Guaranteed Student Loans

Under this program students may be able to borrow money directly from a savings and loan association, credit union, bank, or other lender to attend a college, university, technical, vocational or business school.

If the family's adjusted income is less than $15,000 a year, the federal government will pay the full interest charged on the loan while a student is in school. Repayment ordinarily commences 9-12 months after the student ceases to be enrolled in at least half-time status. The period for repayment is normally arranged for 5-10 years but can be deferred under certain circumstances, i.e., while in the Armed Forces, etc.

A student may borrow under this program if enrolled or accepted for enrollment on at least a half-time basis as an undergraduate, graduate or professional student at an eligible college or university, hospital school of nursing, or approved vocational, technical or business school. There are no age limitations on loans for vocational school and you do not have to be a high school graduate or even an elementary school graduate -- the only requirement is that one be able to benefit from the training you will receive.

Arrangements for the loan -- whether a student is interested in a college or univesity degre, technical, vocational or business school training -- must be made directly by the applicant with the lender, not with the school.

Mental Health . . .

CAN AGED MENTAL PATIENTS BE HELPED?

Can old people in mental hospitals be helped back to a more independent life and to useful work?

Can they ever be brought to the point at which they can leave the hospital?

For too long the answer has been no. Great progress has been made in rehabilitating other mentally ill and in reducing the numbers of patients residing in state mental hospitals.

But the older people have not benefitted much. It has been too long assumed that more of them were in the mental institution to vegetate for the rest of their lives and receive only custodial care.

Now, however, it has been shown that even long-time, chronic patients in forgotten "back wards" can be helped. This has been achieved, on an experimental basis, in a large state hospital.

In the trial program, a ward was set up as a sheltered workshop where patients would do useful work: make small auto parts, package chrome auto letters, roll bandages, make gift items for sale. Nothing was done merely to "kill time."

Everyone was paid for his work and kept and managed his money.

Meantime, many changes were also made in their living quarters.

Full length mirrors were put up, as were calendars and wall clocks. Doors were painted bright colors. Long-locked doors were unlocked and left that way. Furniture was replaced with attractive, non-hospital furniture.

The dining room's long tables were replaced with small tables; and generally living for the aged patients became less and less institutionalized.

They were allowed and encouraged to wear regular clothes instead of hospital garb. Nurses and other staff wore street clothes, too. Men were given free access to shaving materials, including razors. Women had a place to wash and dry their hair; and they could go to the beauty parlor as well.

There was a remarkable change in the old people from a sleepy, sitting-down, dull existence to a busy day of living.

"Thank God for the workshop," said one patient, "I'd go crazy without it."

Results indicate that, despite frail health, some three-fourths of the elderly mental patients achieved a higher level of self-care and independence than before. Many of the group were able to return to work and leave the hospital.

The older mental hospital patient can be helped a great deal when his problems are attacked through an active program. More action programs are being developed by private and public agencies—looking toward a better future for all of our older citizens.

'Those Who Love' Is Program For Friends

A review of the book "Those Who Love" will climax this seasons Friends of the Cameron Library meetings. Mrs. R. W. Hutchins of Raymondville will be guest reviewer for the final Friends meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday, May 6, in the Cameron Public Library.

Mrs. Hutchins, well known in Texas for her book reviews, selected the Irving Stone biography of Abigail Smith and John Adams for the Cameron Library Friends program.

Stone's book has been cited as a "novel of affirmation or 'Yea Saying' to man's richest dreams and aspirations, his sometime failure and ultimately triumph."

It is written against the magnificent panorama of our country's struggle for independence and her first painful steps towards a working republic.

Mrs. Hutchins is a graduate of Baylor University and is active in club and civic work in Raymondville.

Mrs. Perry Holder, president of the Friends of the Cameron Library, said a brief business meeting would include a report from the nominating committee. Mrs. Robert Ellett is nominating committee chairman.

Hostesses for the meeting Tuesday will be the Civic Garden Club and Cameron Parent - Teachers Association.

Up the Down Escalator

Up the DOWN escalator went two small boys, on the loose in a department store. As they scrambled upward, they bumped into a woman shopper, causing her to suffer a bad fall.

In due course she filed a damage suit against the store, charging a failure to maintain order on the premises.

"But none of our employees noticed what those youngsters were doing," protested the company in court. "Surely we ase not required to keep our escalators under constant surveillance."

The court agreed, and the woman's claim was turned down.

Authorities differ as to whether an escalator should be classified as a 'common carrier"-like a train or a bus. However, they all agree that the management is not an absolute guarantor of a passenger's safety. Some risk is inherent in the very nature of this means of transportation. Take this case:

A woman approached an escalator, leading her small son by the hand. But just as she moved onto the first step, the boy stopped short in fright. When the woman reached back for him, she lost her balance and fell.

But again, after a court hearing, the judge could find no grounds for pinning responsibility on the management. He said the cause of the accident was simply the effect the escalator has upon a person who steps upon it without putting his body in corresponding motion."

Nonetheless, a store is indeed obliged to prevent an accident when it reasonably can-either by adequate supervision or by proper up-keep of the equipment. Thus:

A man who fell because an escalator gave a sudden, violent jerk won a damage award. So did a woman who slipped on a gob of grease, which had remained on an escalator step long enough for store employees to have noticed and removed it.

On the other hand, even if the management does see danger, there may be no practical way to avoid it.

In one case the hostess in a hotel spied a drunk weaving his way toward the escalator. Though she tried to restrain him, he pushed her aside, stepped aboard, and toppled backward to the floor.

Afterward, the man complained that the hostess should have stopped me by force." But a court decided that was too much to expect - especially since he weighed twice as much as she did. All in all, the court concluded, the man had no one to blame but himself.

Judge Harden indicated that probably the most pressing needs in the list were the requests for the building improvements at the jail and the request for a probation officer trained to work with juvenile offenders.

CHEESE VARIETY

Want to serve something different to your family this week? The easiest way is to use cheese. Cheese added to a white sauce makes creamed dishes extraordinary.

Cheese combined with salads, such as potato or aspic salad makes them more hearty and flavorful.

Cheese can add a taste-worthy difference to each course of the meal. Perhaps one reason for this is the large variety of cheeses readily obtainable. The different types of cheese number several hundred. But there are only about 18 distinctive types or kinds of cheese. None of these are made exactly the same: the processes are varied to produce characteristics and qualities peculiar to each kind of cheese.

Cheeses are classified as to consistency and as to method of ripening, if ripening has occurred. Parmesan, romano and sapsago are a few of the very hard, ripened cheeses which are grated for cooking use. Cheddar, swiss and gruyere are some of the ripened hard cheeses. Brick, port du salut, muenster, gorgonzola and blue are semi-soft ripened cheeses

Building Or Remodeling?

Major remodeling and repairing jobs in older homes call for home improvement contractors, but homeowners continue to report unsatisfactory ezperiences with them according to the Better Business Bureau.

Most of the complaints are a result of promises which did not materialize and poor workmanship which can be avoided if homeowners are better informed about the sales practices of home improvement contractors, and if they are more careful to select a competent and responsible contractor.

Jane Berry, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist, reports these suggestions to the consumer in choosing and using the services of a home improvement contractor.

1. Obtain competitive bids from at least three contractors. Compare the cost of work to be done, quality of materials and the financing cost.

2. Check the contractor's reputation. Be sure he operates in a business-like manner and takes care of complaints called to his attention.

3. Do business with a contractor who is financially responsible. Call his bank for financial information and check with his suppliers and sub-contractors to determine if he pays his bilis.

4. Demand a written contract listing all work to be performed and materials to be used. Require any oral promises be included in the contract.

5. Read and understand any contract, including the cost of financing, before signing then demand a copy. Never sign a biank or partially completed contract, warns the Texas A&M specialist.

6. Be sure the contractor has full liability coverage. Ask for evidence that he is insured.

7. A guarantee is only as good as the company or manufacturer that gives it. Understand all conditions and limitations and be sure the guarantee is in writing. Read carefully all provisions of any so-called "life-time" guarantee.

COST OF LANDSCAPING

The cost of landscape development--grading, drives, patios, retaining walls, screen fences, plantings and professional service--are often overlooked in the planning for a new home.

These are among the items, says Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist at Texas A&M University, which can have much to do with making the new home more beautiful and living more enjoyable. Too often, he adds, they are overlooked in planning the budget for the new home.

The average cost of land development is between 10 and 20 percent of the cost of the house and lot. These figures, points out the horticulturist, do not include the cost of a large installation such as a swimming pool or tennis court.

The ideal situation, says Janne, is to plan the house and grounds together before construction begins. This allows for the house to be designed to fit the site in the best manner with a minimum of grading or cutting and filling of soil. The full development of indoor-outdoor relationships can result in better site use.

Janne points out other factors in site development as the lay-of-the-land, seasonal wind directions, sun angles, view, types of uses to made of space both inside and outside the house and building set-back lines.

Ideally, the site should be changed as little as possible when locating a house and related outdoor developments. In this way the owner can save existing trees and preserve the natural beauty of the location, concludes the horticulturist.

OLD FARM BUILDINGS

Old buildings can be a problem to the farmer who is planning an enlarged or more modern set of facilities.

But, reminds W. S. Allen, Extension agricultural engineer at Texas A&M University, quick decisions to use old buildings or to remove them may be a costly mistake.

Before making any major changes in permanent facilities, a longtime plan for the farm should be developed which will result in maximum use of the farm and family resources. With this master plan, says Allen, a set of facilities for the specific production enterprises can be developed.

Before deciding the fate of an old building, the structural condition of the building must be determined, says the engineer. The foundation, walls, roof, interior supports and framing should be checked. A major cash outlay for repairs may dictate that the building be demolished.

Another important consideration is whether or not the location and arrangement of the old building can be included in the new system at a remodeling cost below that of a new building. The post spacing, ceiling height and general arrangement should match what would be planned for a new facility, says Allen. The cost of remodeling and any addition should be compared with the cost of a completely new building.

Because some old buildings can be converted economically into a well arranged and highly useful facility and others cannot, Allen recommends that a thorough cost study be made of any given situation and the results used in making the final decision.

Epochal: DeGaulle's Resignation

Perhaps the decision came with the death of Eisenhower, his last "comrade in arms" of the European conclict. For Charles DeGaulle made special flight to Washington to attend the state funeral of the 34th President and stayed an extra day.

Perhaps it is coincidence that he returned to France and announced he would consider the outcome of the reform vote as a vote of confidence. Perhaps he had previously decided, following the 1968 student riots and worker strikes, that the France he governed was not the France he onetime knew.

The conjecture is moot. General DeGaulle stepped aside this week after the vote went 53 to 47 percent against his reform proposals. At 78 and with 10 years as President, Charles DeGaulle honored his pledge to resign.

The grand style of DeGaulle, his epochal ascension (for his style is a token of a nobler era) and epochal resignation are beyond the complex pragmatism of this day. His critics, and we are among them, felt the power of his personality exceeded any power in La Belle France to cope with the 1960's.

As DeGaulle avoided Britain's 19th Century style of muddling through, he muddled the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and ended in West Germany's debt when the mark balanced the franc's 1968 instability.

He literally held France together. His famous appearances on French television for one seven-year term and part of a second kept Frenchmen coallesced in fear that they might once again fragment.

And fragment they might. Without DeGaulle's incredible bravado, France has no one capable of dismissing revolt, rationality and the U.S.A.

Perhaps in meeting with President Nixon in January and again during Eisenhower's funeral, DeGaulle knew France no longer could obstruct a NATO entente, even with her geographic position in Western Europe. Things at home were askew. He had held out as long as possible.

Whatever, LeGrand Charles stepped aside. And the Glory of France will depend on the beneficence of her German oppressors of 25 years ago and a strengthened NATO alliance.

What Others Say . . .

Women Drivers . . .

The World Health Organization has surveyed a panel of experts who testified that women drive automobiles as well as men do and probably better.

No less an authority than Graham Hill, a world Grand Prix racing champion, said sex had nothing to do with driving ability. "There are good drivers and bad drivers, that's all," he concluded.

The panel decided women usually are more prudent than men when behind the wheel of an automobile. They are involved in fewer serious accidents. . . .

Look at it this way: Without the woman driver myth how would people such as Henny Youngman, Alan King, and Milton Berle make a living?

Minimum Wage Bill Highlights Week's Action

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN

After a slow Monday - Wednesday, legislators would up last week in a blaze of speed, turning out more than 100 bills on climactic Thursday.

Senate passage of a much - amended $1.25 an hour minimum wage bill, with a push from Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, highlighted the action. Bill survived Senate filibusters. Now it goes to the House where Speaker Gus Mutscher reports its fate will be decided in a floor battle.

Also triumphant over filibusters was the bill to set up Texas State Technical Institute under a separate governing board with authority to operate facilities in Waco, Harlingen and Amarillo areas. It now is known as James Connally Technical Institute and is under the Texas A&M University System. Only those courses which area junior colleges can't or won't offer could be taught in this job preparation field. Bill goes to Gov. Preston Smith for signature.

House earlier voted to split the Parks and Wildlife Department into separate agencies regulating parks and game and fish. Senate apparently is cool to the "divorce" plan.

House also voted to create University of Texas of Permian Basin near the present Odessa College campus and agreed the name of the Liquor Control Board should be changed to Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Both houses agreed on bills to provide for misdemeanor action against corporations charged with air and water pollution.

A Senate - passed bill would permit admission of oral confessions as evidence in criminal trials.

WATER PLAN ADOPTED

Nine billion dollar Texas Water Plan has been formally adopted by Texas Water Development Board, and implementing legislation is moving fast.

Water Development Board accepted the plan, which includes a proposal to import some 12 to 13 million acre feet of surplus water annually from the lower Mississippi River to meet state requirements to the year 2020.

Water Rights Commission set the stage by entering an official finding that the plan "gives adequate consideration to protection of existing water rights and takes into account modes and procedures for equitable adjustment of water rights to be affected."

BOTTLE CLUB RULES

Texas Liquor Control Board has set May 9 for a public hearing on a new proposal for private club rules and regulations, drawn up after a previous hearing.

New draft includes major changes to allow the use of computers in record keeping; more detailed regulations on record keeping for tax collection purposes; definitions of "guest," "member" and "member's family"; a definition of food and service required at clubs and more detailed rules on the locker system.

LCB also agreed to ask the Legislature for an additional $634,523 in appropriations — over what the Senate-passed money bill would give the LCB.

That extra money is needed, Board says, because of passage of a bill revising the Liquor Control Act, recent increases in licenses and permits and the further fact that there are now three ports of entry on the Mexico border which are presently not manned with...tax collectors."

COURTS SPEAK

State Supreme Court has held that Orange - Bridge City retired marinists cannot collect unemployment compensation unless they actively seek work.

High Court also found an Amarillo couple entitled to damages from Ford Motor Company as a result of an accident caused when a truck with faulty brakes hit their car.

Court of Criminal Appeals sustained a new law directing motorcycle riders and passengers to wear prescribed helmets.

Same Court upheld death sentence for a Houston man charged with beating a baby to death.

AG OPINIONS

Although the Legislature intended ballots may be prepared so as to be compatible for use in automatic tabulating equipment, those used with electronic devices must be similar to ordinary paper ballot, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has concluded.

Martin also held that:

Baptist hospital parking lots can be exempt from taxes if local tax authorities find they are an essential part of the hospital operation.

There is no authority to use county funds for purchasing volumes of a county history.

SCREWWORM CASES

Texas had only eight cases of screwworms confirmed in March, which—with the nine cases found in February—marks the end of the serious screwworm outbreaks last summer and fall.

Spring is about here, however, and the Texas Animal Health Commission foresees "more problems." Rain and warm weather hurt the control program.

A joint report of the Commission and the Animal Health Division of the US Department of Agriculture says that 200,272,000 sterile flies were dropped in Texas during March to fight the expected increase.

Report also shows that 134 Texas counties now are modified certified brucellosis counties, 30 other counties are being tested and 32 others are under modified certified testing.

VISTA PROGRAM SIGNED

Governor Smith announced signing of a VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) project to benefit aged in a 16-county Central Texas area.

Counties which have highest percentage over-65 population in the state include Coleman, Callahan, Concho, McCullough, Runnels, San Saba, Brown, Blanco, Mason, Mills, Llano, Hamilton, Eastland, Erath, Bosque and Comanche. Community Council of Blanco and Comal Counties and Central Texas Opportunities Inc. will serve as delegate sponsors, and Hill County Action Association as prime sponsor or grantee. Twenty VISTA volunteers will assist in the area.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

You can make $300.00 a week at this part time. Must be reputable, ambitious and energetic. Active in your church. College training preferred. Have $300.00 to $500.00 capital. Send resume to Box 7794, Waco, Texas.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

A man can spend just so much time settling national and international problems, occasionally he has to turn to his own immediate problems, and that's what I've been doing after I read an article in a newspape yesterday on a new proposal for a new farm program being discussed in Washington to avoid surpluses.

According to it, a farmer could sell his cropping rights to the government but still hold on to his land. He could continue to use it, but not to grow crops.

This is exactly the type of program I've been wanting for years.

There is a myth abroad that if you own some land you're supposed to be out there on it with your tractor going up one row and down another and if you aren't you're hard put to explain to your neighbors, not to mention your household, why you aren't. Shiftless is a word you hear in ths connection frequently, which has always puzzled me. If you're a farmer and stand still you're shiftless, but if you're a politician who won't stand still, you're shifty. The world is hard to please.

But if we can get this new proposal enacted, where it's against the law for me to plaw, it'll be a pleasure to say, "Don't look at me, those weeds belong to Washington. I've sold my plowing rights."

Farming will come into its own when I can sell my plowing rights and retain my mineral rights.

I haven't seen the details of the proposal, but I hope you'll use your influence to see that when the government buys my cropping rights, it won't be in one lump sum, good for now on. Payments ought to be made every year.

Farming this Johnson grass farm will reach the dignity it deserves when, if the government should ever get tired of the program and decide not to pay me, I could foreclose on Washington for failing to pay me for not working.

I don't know what a lien against Washington would be worth on the open market, but it ought to be worth as much as one against this farm.

Yours faithfully,
J. K.

LETTERS

Mr. Frank M. Luecke, Editor
Cameron Herald
Cameron, Texas
Dear Mr. Luecke:

Although it is perhaps a minor matter, we wish to advise you of an incorrect statement in a story headlined "Crime Control Studied" in your issue of April 24th.

The Governor's office suggested that Heart of Texas Council of Governments and not our organization (as stated in your article), serve as a coordinating agency for crime control funds. While it is true that Bell County objected to the arrangement proposed by the Governor's office, this was no reaction to our organization. Our organization was apparently never considered for this purpose by the Governor's office nor have our directors ever proposed that the Economic Development District should carry on this function.

For our specific purposes, twelve Central Texas counties have established good working relations within our organization in my opinion. The District has now been in operation about 22 months; not three years as stated in the article.

Since late January, 1968, almost $4,000,000 worth of projects in our service area have been approved by Economic Development Administration including engineering assistance for the City of Cameron. Enclosed is a summary of approved projects as extracted from our recent First Annual report.

While we are eager to be of service to our twelve member counties in every possible way; the scope of our activities has always been determined by the wishes of our Board of Directors. Milam County representatives on our board are County Judge O. B. Harden, Mr. Bassel Wilson, Mr. J. L. Banks, Mr. George W. Hutton, Mr. Ben Ford and Mayor E. A. Perrin.

Sincerely yours,
Preston M. Hays

Company Slogan Reflects Concern For 'Little Guy'

Concern for "the little guy" is a built-in characteristic of American life. We cheer the underdog and admire the man who gets to the top against all odds.

Therein lies a challenge for large companies to avoid being cold and impersonal -- the challenge of treating "the little guy" like the individual he is.

One such business, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, has launched an all-out effort to avoid acting like the only phone company in town -- which it is in Cameron.

"Our new advertising slogan says it best," said C. L. Carson, manager for Southwestern Bell. "We call it WMBTOPCITBWTNTALL. We've been accused of having a secret code or mysterious key club, but those letters really just stand for, 'We may be the only phone company in town, but we try not to act like it.'"

But Carson said the company is trying to make the WMB... letters mean more than an advertising slogan.

"We realize that, although we have competition in some phases of our business, there's no one else in Cameron a customer can turn to for basic telephone service," he explained. "That's all the more reason for us to avoid acting like the only phone company in town.

"We're examining all aspects of our service to make sure we're treating our customers as fairly and courteously as possible," he went on. 'And when we're not, we want our customers to tell us."

"We have a lot of machines, equipment and computers," Carson said. "But our company still consists of people. In fact, we have some 60,000 of them in the territory our company serves. We're human, and sometimes we drop the ball.

"Yet the WMB theme means that we want to correct our mistakes fast, because the public is our boss."

He said the WMB...advertisements are being seen now in newspapers and also are appearing on television. They will be heard on radio later this year.

"We may be the only phone company in town, but we're going to try not to act like it," Carson assured. "After all, the man who started it all--Alexander Graham Bell--was one of those 'little guys' himself."

Gause News

Mrs. Wanda Lee

As I promised last week here is the summary of the Gause School Social Studies classes field trips they took recently.

All this school term the students had been studying the Eastern Hemispheres, neighbors around the world and learning about the word around us so, they decided they would like to explore the area around our own town. The principal and faculty agreed with the idea and plans began.

The first trip took the students "through the hills west of Gause" out past Mr. Gilbert Turner's ranch. The students again thank Mr. Turner for the money he gave the school last year for shrubbery. The group then crossed Allinator Creek, something new to most of the youngsters. This is where the dogwood blooms so beautifully each spring. They also discovered the location of the "Gause oil wells", and on to the Kornegay Brothers farms.

Their destination from here was the Kornegay chicken ranch where 6,000 laying hens are housed. The egg factory includes an egg tester, washer, dryer and grader. The Kornegays also have Brahma bulls, cows and calves and sir sows and 66 baby pigs. The youngsters called this place second to the State Fair of Texas.

The second field trip also proved very interestig. First stop was at Billy Cunningham's hog farm. As one student put it, they saw "hogs and pens, pens and hogs, hogs and pens." They first went to the feed barns where everything is operated electrically.

By pressing switches a demonstration of just how the feed is moved from one barn to another was shown. The feed is then mechanically loaded and carted off to the hog pens for automatic feeding. Some seemed amazed that this was all done without the use of a shovel. At this time there were 700 hogs and pigs on hand with 50 in each pen.

Water for the pigs comes from a tank with two electric pumps and one gasoline pump for emergency use. There are two outlets in each pen with a spike in the center to discourage loitering. The children agreed this could be a tip for the school drinking fountain.

After the tour of the hog farm the students took a brief look at Mr. Lyd Cunningham's cows, costal bermuda and his fishing lines in one of the tanks.

After the 51 students boarded the bus they were informed that Mr. Billy had given money for each one to have a cold drink. Mrs. Cunningham told me that Mr. Cunningham later received a nice thank you note from each student.

Next part of the trip took the group to the Two Mile Community, a section of Gause filled with "creeks, rivers and swamps". After a tour of the L. L. Walker ranch and home the group again boarded the bus for further adventure. They passed the Shaw farm and other farms before reaching the Baker's Ranch where most of the group saw for the first time the house that topped the end of Long Mountain. This mountain begins at Sugarloaf Mountain and curves around for about five miles.

The group returned to the school and everyone thought the trips fun as well as educational.

SCREWWORM CASES UP

Officials of the Screwworm Eradication Program advise livestock producers to "spray herds, doctor all wounds, and collect larvae samples of all worms found within wounds and send samples to the Mission Laboratory for positive identification." Twelve cases were confirmed in Texas during the first 1 days in April and conditions continue favorable for further trouble.

Crop Questions Coming In May

A crop acreage questionnaire will be mailed to some 40,000 Texas farmers during May. Information on the completed returns will be the basis for official estimates of state and county crop acreages.

Henry Ivey, chairman of the Milam County Technical Action panel, said reports are needed from many farmers in the 254 Texas counties so that each county will be well represented.

The questionnaries will be mailed from the office of Cary Palmer, state statistician of the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin. Farmers who receive the questionnaire are urged to complete it promptly and return it to Palmer's office.

Accurate estimates of crop acreage are important to farmers in planning production and marketing and in providing a fair picture of Texas agriculture, Ivey said.

County Agent's Notes ....

Interest High At Grass Planting

By J. D. Moore

A greatest quotation by Albert A. Michelson said, "My greatest inspiration is a challenge to attempt the impossible." Planting Coastcross grass was not an impossibility, we just didn't know how to plant it. The challenge associated with the planting of this grass was the recommendation that a part of the stem should be exposed above the soil.

More than 50 interested people were shown several methods of planting this new grass April 21 at the Gilleland farm in the Hanover community. First, the three row Bermuda King grass planter was demonstrated. Thirteen flat edged roller coulters were attached to the machine to press the grass clippings into the soil.

Next, the Prey grass planter followed a similar planting pattern to that of the Bermuda King. The Wichita planter did a similar job of planting. However, this planter is only a two row machine and is adapted to smaller jobs.

For the average stock farmer, the use of a manure spreader to distribute the clippings evenly over the soil followed by a two gang disc harrow, followed by a cultipacker probably was the most practical method considering the availibility of machinery on the average farm. The various planting methods will be evaluated this year by studying the results of this demonstration.

John J. Parmelee and Henry Davidson, commercial Coastcross I producers in the Rockdale area, were in charge of the demonstration. They were assisted by the Milam County agents, A. N. Graham, representing Gaither Ford Tractor Sales; Henry O'Neal, agricultural engineer, Texas A&M; Albert Novosad, pasture specialist from A&M, and other interested leaders.

ST. AUGUSTINE DECLINE

St. Augustine Decline was first determined to be a disease in 1967, according to a release by Norman L. McCoy, plant pathologist at A&M.

Earlier observers had thought the condition to be a nutritional problem. When grass would not respond to treatments with various nutrients, it was decided to determine if a pathological agent was involved through transmission studies. The extracted juice from diseased plants was rubbed on healthy plants and in 21 days the healthy plants began to show disease symptoms.

It was suspected at this time the disease was caused by a virus. However, it was not until recently (March, 1969) that research plant pathologists at Texas A&M University observed virus particles with aid of the electron microscope.

Studies are underway to evaluate various strains of St. Augustine for tolerance to the disease. It is anticipated that a tolerant strain can be found with the desirable qualities homeowners prefer.

There are no current chemicals that can be used to eradicate plant viruses. Recognizing and identifying the disease is probably the best service an Extension Agent can render to the homeowner. This could prevent the homeowner from spending money on remedies that are of no value.

Where the disease destroys a lawn, the homeowner might consider the use of ground cover plants or bermuda grass where salt spray and shade are not a problem.

WATCH FOR PLANT PESTS

Home gardeners, farmers, campers, hikers and travelers are urged by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to be on the lookout for unusual insects or damage to ornamentals, trees, lawns, houses and crops.

HD Agent Notes

By Christine Laws

Shakespeare thought that 'clothing oft proclaims the man," but today, accessories proclaim the clothes. Skillful use of accessories adds variety, style and life to costumes.

Choosing them is a challenge and an Extension bulletin on "Accessories around the clock" may help. It offers fashion hints for looking smart, for street, travel or business, for church and afternoon wear and for after-five occasions.

The authors, clothing specialists for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M, clue readers on everything from flattering lines in accessories to perfume for the time of day.

Fashion is something we buy, but style is what we give the things we wear, the authors say. The accessory-wise individual has satisfaction and self-assurance of being well-dressed.

Accessories express the personality and taste of the wearer. Choosing the best ones takes knowledge, time, energy, patience, imagination and work.

Contact the county Extension office for a copy of "Accessories around the clock."

BARBECUE HINTS

Meats of all kinds and most cuts can be barbecued. Less tender cuts, of course, require tenderizing before barbecuing. Marinate the meat to tenderize it. The marinating preparation should contain a food acid such as lemon juice, vinegar or tomato juice to break down meat fibers and add flavor.

All kinds of steak, from T-bone to flank, are excellent to barbecue. Choose high grade meat. For barbecuing, a steak should be at least one inch thick and free of excess fat. Cube or minute steaks and ground beef are familiar to barbecue pits.

Chuck, cubed chuck, and stew beef can be barbecued if marinated first for flavor and tenderness.

Here is a general rule for beef barbecue sauce: make it rich in oil. If you choose poultry, use a two to two and one-half pound bird. Allow about a pound for each adult. Four to eight pound turkeys barbecue beautifully and are easy on the budget. Poultry meats are best with a delicately seasoned barbecue sauce, mostly oil and herbs.

Barbecue sauces for pork should go easy on the oil and heavy on the catsup, tomato paste or chili sauce. For lamb, use a sauce rich in oil and garlic.

ASCS

By Alva E. Sanders

The State ASC Committee was notified on April 16 of an additional option that could be used relative to the period of time that grazing could be permitted on cropland acres diverted or to be diverted under the 1969 annual wheat and feed grain programs. Earlier, producers had been informed that the non-grazing period for such acres in 1969 would be between the dates of April 30 and October 1.

After consulting with county ASC committees in the areas of the State where it is common to graze small grain crops such as wheat, oats, rye and barley, the non-grazing period for annual program diverted acres has been set between the dates of May 14 and October 15 for 48 counties.

The non-grazing period for annual program diverted acres for Milam and all other counties in Texas remains as announced earlier — between the dates of April 30 and October 1.

Short Czech Course Offered At A & M

Texas A&M University will offer a special beginners' Czech course this summer through its Modern Language Department.

The course will cover one year's work in six weeks, noted Dr. Jack A. Dabbs, department head. He said such a "quickie" course has never been offered before.

Dr. Dabbs pointed out students will spend three hours per day, five days per week, in class, with additional time in the laboratory listening to tapes made by native speakers.

The course carries six hours of college credit.

Registration for the course is June 2, with classes scheduled June 3 through July 11.

Pontiac's bumper-to-bumper bumper.

The Wide-Track Family for '69: Grand Prix, Bonneville, Brougham, Executive, Catalina, GTO, LeMans, Custom S, Tempest and Firebird. Pontiac Motor Division.

It starts with an Endura nose that won't rust, won't dent and won't chip. It can't. Because Endura has the spring of rubber, the toughness of steel. And it lasts longer than either one.

Anything as good as Endura deserves having more than a nose made out of it. So we put it on Bonneville's rear bumper, too. That way you won't get the shakes when you're slipping into a tight parking place.

But that's not the end of Bonneville's bumpers. Vinyl strips along both sides protect your flanks. A sure cure for "parking-lot door."

Nose. Rear. Sides. There's a bumper crop for you. Give Bonneville a test bump at your Pontiac dealer's. Break Away!

Sen. Watson Cites Passage Of Two Vocational Bills

Sen. Murray Watson noted passage of two new laws last week which "will make Texas the Nation's number one leader in moving forward to fully implement the need in both vocational and technical training."

The bill separating James Connally Institute from Texas A&M University provides for setting up three campuses in Texas to be administered by a nine-man board of regents.

Role and scope of the institute is defined by the bill "as being responsible for the orderly development of technical and vocational education and training in Texas," Watson said.

He added that the new system will provide a "reservoir of trained and qualified people for both industry and labor." The Board will be made up of people from both industry and labor.

The 'Texas Vocational Act of 1969' signed by Gov. Preston Smith last week will provide a 21-man Advisory Board for Vocational and Technical Education which will be appointed by the Governor.

Sen. Watson said the Advisory Board will advise and help develop programs at all levels of education in Texas. The new Board will work with the State Board of Education in developing the technical and vocational programs.

TIC To Receive 'E' Certificate

The Texas Industrial Commission, Austin, has been designated by Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans to receive the President's Export "E" Certificate of Service for successfully promoting sales of American products abroad, the U. S. Department of Commerce announced today.

The Commission is a State agency charged with promoting industrial expansion in Texas. Through its Office of Export Development created four years ago by the Texas State Legislature, the Commission started a broad program of export trade seminars that were attended by more than 800 top executives. The following year, with Commerce Department assistance, it organized its first mobile trade fair.

Export sales of Texas manufactured products are estimated at $1.5 billion in 1968, up from $976 million at the start of the program in 1965-66. This marks a three-year increase of $524 million compared with an increase of $150 million for the five-year period before the export program was started.

Outdoors In Texas—

By Vern Sanford

A few generations ago we gave very little thought to the possibility that in this century we might see the end of clean rivers. Now it is up to us. Pollution has increased to a point where water and wildlife will suffer and even people will perish. It is horrible to contemplate. Today, scientists are working diligently on methods of pollution prevention.

But we, the people, are doing our darndest to bring it about. We have turned river and lake banks into settlements. Literally thousands of houses are without proper sanitary facilities. We toss our empty bottles, cans and old tires into the streams. Or leave them where they will wash into the water with the first heavy rain.

We operate thousands of houseboats on our lakes. . .and nearly all of them are without proper sanitary facilities. It seems that we do just about everything possible to ruin our water.

This is the water we drink. We bathe in it. We use it for our crops and our flowers. We even baptise with this water. Yet we pollute it.

Official steps are being taken to correct this situation, but it still remains a personal obligation, too. Each of us benefits and each of us pays the price.

Some hope may be available from the Scenic Rivers bill now in Congress. This measure sets up a national policy for the protection of wild and scenic streams. Coverage by the bill includes a stream or section of a stream or a tributary and the adjacent lands. Measure passed without opposition in the Senate, but it encountered trouble in the House. This because some of the Congressmen were more interested in building dams and providing industry than keeping any scenic beauty for the future generations.

You can give support to this bill by writing your own congressman and letting him know that you believe some of our beautiful streams should be kept for posterity. Also pledge to him your support in keeping the streams of our areas as free from pollution as possible.

City ordinances and state laws exist, but there is a lack of enforcement and few teeth in the laws. Therefore it becomes an individual problem. Every one of us must do something to save our rivers, our fish and wildlife, our recreational areas and even our lives.

Next time you are tempted to toss a beverage can or throw an old tire into the water, think twice. You are not just hurting yourself, you are robbing your children and grandchildren of their rightful heritage. . . .clean, pure water!

AHS HONOR ROLL

NEWS NOTES

The Overseas Press Club has cited for excellence ABC News' commentator Howard K. Smith for television and the ABC News Saigon Bureau for radio coverage in the Club's 1969 awards competitions.

Commentator Howard K. Smith won a 1969 citation for "Best Interpretation of Foreign Affairs," and the ABC News Saigon Bureau was cited for "Best Radio Reporting from Overseas."

Smith's award was based on three commentaries he delivered on the "ABC Evening News with Frank Reynolds." the nightly network television news program. They were: "Pueblo-Type Electronic Snooping," "Vietnam Alternative" and "U.S. Vietnam Policy Has Changed."

The ABC News Saigon Bureau award was based on an ABC Radio presentation, "Vietnam Update," which dealt with the 1968 Tet offensive.

The awards were presented at the annual awards dinner of the Overseas Press Club, April 18 at The Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City.

New Battle Cry of Housewife

Wet household garbage, a daily bothersome chore for the American housewife, is fast yielding to the pulverizing power of food waste disposers, such as those from American-Standard, that grind up everything from bones to dinner scraps and send them down the kitchen drain. It has now become a regular practise of the home-searching housewife to check for this useful kitchen helper in every builder's model. Incidentally, garbage collectors throughout the nation are cheering this latest kitchen device since it removes as much as 20% in weight from their annual collections.
